The Science of Happiness: The Secret to Better Work and Life

Kim Strobel

Coach CEO

Strobel Education

In this thought-provoking and compelling keynote, Ms. Strobel shares how we can reprogram our brains to become more positive and step into our power. When our happiness and well-being are at the forefront, employees are 10 times more engaged, 31% more productive and three times more creative. Unfortunately, research shows that about 52% of employees are unhappy at work.

Disengagement and dissatisfaction among workers have reached unprecedented levels. Ms. Strobel unpacks the positive psychology science and research that pivots the crowd towards optimism. Her inspiring stories and practical tips for well-being leave the audience feeling inspired and full of hope for creating their own happiness within their profession and their personal lives. When you reset your brain toward positive, you become more engaged, creative, motivated, energetic, resilient and productive in life—including your work life.

Learning Objectives

Upon completion of this session, participants will be able to:

- Summarize the happiness research and where our power lies.
- Discuss the happiness formula that improves performance in work life and home life.
- Integrate the simple tools to retrain your brain towards a positive outlook.

1:15 – 2:15 p.m. Dental Education With AI: Tools, Applications and Prompt Engineering

Helen Crompton, M.Ed., Ph.D.

Executive Director
Research Institute for Digital Innovation in Learning
Old Dominion University

This workshop provides dental educators with practical knowledge of artificial intelligence (AI) and its growing significance in dental education. Participants will gain insights into the foundational concepts of AI, generative AI tools and prompt engineering for effective teaching and learning strategies. We'll discuss AI's common misuses, limitations and risks while showcasing how it enhances educational methods and clinical training. Through hands-on activities, educators will explore how to integrate AI-driven tools into their curricula to streamline instruction, foster critical thinking and prepare students for a tech-driven future in dentistry.

Learning Objectives

Upon completion of this session, participants will be able to:

- Describe the benefits, risks, limitations and ethics of AI in dental education.
- Integrate AI tools to enhance pedagogical practice.
- Apply a prompt engineering framework to create effective prompts for dental education.

- Envisioning Oral Health Education—What Is the Best Fit for Best Health?
- Danielle Rulli, D.H.Sc., M.S., RDH
Associate Professor and Director, MSDH Program
The Ohio State University
- Preparation for the future is rightfully on the minds of many dental educators. In 2024, ADEA launched the Task Force on Envisioning and Transforming the Future of Oral Health & Education (ADEA TF-ETFOHE). Its two-part charge consists of first envisioning the ideal future for oral health and then designing the oral health education model(s) that best support that future. During the past year, the Task Force has engaged with the first part of the charge. Members of the Task Force will share its working concept of ideal oral health for the future and the process behind it.
- Learning Objectives
Upon completion of this session, participants will be able to:
- Describe the ADEA TF-ETFOHE charge and understand the paradigm that drives that charge and the Task Force's work.
 - Describe the Task Force's working concept of the ideal future for oral health.
 - Assess how to contribute toward the ideal future for oral health, both individually and as a part of a larger context.

ADEA Survey of Allied Dental Program Directors Overview

Carrie Hanson, RDH, M.Ed., Ed.D.
Chair, ADEA Council of Allied Dental Program Directors

In fall 2024, ADEA launched the ADEA 2024 Survey of Allied Dental Program Directors. This survey is administered every other year and serves as the key resource on program director positions, faculty positions and salaries. While survey outcomes are still being analyzed, some preliminary findings will be presented.

Learning Objectives

Upon completion of this session, participants will be able to:

- Discuss early findings of the 2024 ADEA Allied Dental Program Director Survey.
- Summarize important uses of the survey data.
